

Essential Spring Footwear Trends of 2018

Have you been looking forward to warmer days long before you even had the chance to dream of a white Christmas? Well spring is just around the corner and, trust us, it will sneak up on you much quicker than you'd expect. The last thing you need is to be caught off guard by the change in weather, and we all know dressing for the shifting seasons can be overly stressful. A great pair of shoes can really go a long way, and we want to make sure you're prepared for both April showers and May flowers.

It's important to invest in some staples for your footwear collection so that you can frolic through springtime looking your absolute best. The trouble is, spring can be unpredictable, so it's crucial to have a fantastic shoe option for the rollercoaster of weather changes in the early half of the year. From warm, bright sunshine to dark, bleak rainy days, here are our top picks to make sure you're ready to handle whatever the new season throws your way (and to make sure you do it with style, of course!).

For the Darker Days Ahead

We don't doubt for a second that spring can bring some dreary days upon us. If the sun isn't shining its absolute brightest, then be sure to avoid freezing feet and opt for some high heel boots. A great pair of high heel boots can easily transition from a day in the office, to running errands, or even to drinks with the girls on Saturday night. Plus, you can always go for a peep-toe boot for dressier occasions—so long as the weather cooperates and your toes don't get too wet!

Classy, Sassy, and Strappy

We've never questioned that caged heels are hot, but it's been confirmed even further on the runway during New York Fashion Week. When the days warm up and the sun comes out, a caged heel will complete any look, from super casual jeans to the most darling of dresses. The best part about caged heels is that they're comfortable for commuting (plus they're suitable for most offices!) and will even look great on the weekend for your neighbor's barbeque you promised you'd attend. You don't have to worry about ever being underdressed, because caged heels are always pulling double duty as both appropriate and adorable.

Sturdy and Stable

Maybe you're searching for something more stable in your life, in which case, a fantastic pair of wedges never fail. Though they're not quite as dressy as a caged heel, a wedge is a great accessory to any outfit suited for warmer weather. Wedges seem to balance on the line between formal and casual, but are versatile enough to do both when matched with the proper outfits.

A Springtime Staple

Maybe you associate sandals with hot beachy paradise, but don't assume these babies can't be brought into your spring wardrobe as well. As it starts to heat up outside, a great sandal will effortlessly transition you from season to season. We're already suspecting that sandals will come out of hibernation earlier than usual this year and make a big splash for spring. A big bonus is that sandals can be worn with any length dress or skirt (or even with some great denim) and they never look out of place. If you're searching for something cute and casual to get you through the season, sandals are certainly the way to go.

Sneakers in the Sun

So maybe sneakers have trouble handling the more aggressive winter weather, but they should definitely be included in the shoe rotation when the snow has melted away. In fact, a great pair of knit sneakers can do so much more than just function as comfortable and practical footwear—they're actually super trendy! Sneakers were the shoe of choice last spring, and all of the signs suggest they won't be going away any time soon. Plus, what's better than a shoe that can offer comfort and support while you're running around town all day without sacrificing your look?

www.shutterstock.com · 635297834

So when it's time to pack away your clunky winter boots, what will you be bringing out to replace them? Remember that your spring footwear pieces should be able to handle casual and dressy occasions, wet and dry weather, and anything and everything in between! And don't worry, you should never have to sacrifice your style for a comfortable, practical shoe.

What's your absolute favorite spring shoe? And what's your favorite outfit to pair it with?

---

Meta Title & Description:

The Most Essential Shoe and Footwear Trends for Spring 2018

Spring is coming and you need to make sure your shoe collection is prepared for everything. Be sure you have the proper kicks to go from the office, to happy hour, to running errands, or to your neighbor's annual backyard party. From knit sneakers to high heel boots, we have highlighted all of the essential footwear styles you need to handle spring 2018 like the stylish, strong woman you are.

Photo Links:

High heel boots

Sandals

Knit sneakers